this volume engages the interface between the development of human lives and social relational networks it focuses on the integration of two subfields of sociology social science the life course and social networks research practitioners studying social networks typically focus on social structure or social organization ignoring the complex lives of the people in those networks at the same time life course researchers tend to focus on individual lives without necessarily studying the contexts of social relationships in which lives are embedded and linked to one another through social networks these patterns are changing and this book creates an audience of researchers who will better integrate the two subfields it covers the role of social networks across the life span from childhood and adolescence to midlife through old age about half of all incoming ninth graders in urban districts will fail classes and drop out of school without a diploma failing at school starts with the premise that urban american high schools generate such widespread student failure not because of some fault of the students who attend them but because high schools were designed to stratify achievement and let only the top performers advance to higher levels of education this is particularly true for low income racial ethnic minority students to get different results farrington proposes fundamental changes based on what we now know about how students learn what motivates them to engage in learning and what kinds of educational systems and structures would best support their learning conducted over a 7yr period spawning many jrnal pub s this vol will summarize the many interconnected studies that were conducted will frame each one in terms of the larger lit will emphasize their contrib s to motivational theory educ practice
