image text architecture brings a radical and detailed analysis of the modern and contemporary architectural media addressing issues of architectural criticism architectural photography and the role of journal editors it covers examples as diverse as an article by british artist paul nash in the architectural review 1940 an early project by french architects lacaton vassal published in the journal 2g 2001 and recent photography by hisao suzuki for the spanish journal el croquis at the intersection of image and text the book also reveals the role of the utopian impulse within the architectural media drawing on theories of utopian discourse from the work of the french semiotician and art theorist louis marin and the american marxist critic fredric jameson through this it builds a fresh theoretical approach to journal studies revealing a hitherto unexplored dimension of latent or unconscious discourse within the media portrait of architecture the purpose of this enquiry is to highlight moments where a different type of critical voice emerges on the architectural journal page indicating the possibility of a more progressive engagement with the media as a platform for critical and speculative thinking about architecture and to rethink the journals role within architectural history

this text brings together a unique collection of writing by a leading researcher and critic which outlines the evolution of the environmental dimension of architectural theory and practice in the past twenty five years it deals with the transformation of the environmental design field which was brought about by the growth of energy awareness in the 1970s and 1980s and places environmental issues in the broader theoretical and historical context in architecture striving to adapt the progressive ideas of the pre war modern movement to the specific human needs of post war reconstruction alison and peter smithson were among the most influential and controversial architects of the latter half of the twentieth century as younger members of ciam congrès internationaux d architecture moderne and as founding members of team 10 they were at the heart of the debate on the future course of modern architecture their polemics and designs addressing issues such as the rising consumer society and the orientation of urban planning laid the foundations for new brutalism and the pop art movement of the 1960s an important adaptation made by the smithsons and their generation was the rejection of modernism s machine aesthetics the new notions of place and territory were juxtaposed to le corbusier s machine à habiter to the smithsons a house was a particular place which should be suited to its location and able to meet the ordinary requirements of everyday life and to accommodate its inhabitants individual patterns of use this exhibition examines the evolution of the smithsons approach to this everyday art of inhabitation it does this by extensively documenting most of their designs for individual dwellings especially their optimistic house of the future of 1956 and the series of renovations of and additions to the fairy tale like hexenhaus in germany from the late 1980s onward
